

'FRISCO WILD WITH ANGER

Over the Shooting of Asst. Dist. Attorney Heney

THREATS OF LYNCHING

The Victim of Morris Haas, an Ex-Convict, Is Alive and Has Good Chances for Recovery.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Charges and counter-charges netting into a lynch mob were bandied today among the friends of Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, who was shot and seriously wounded late yesterday in Judge Lawlor's crowded court room by Morris Haas, an ex-convict, the shooting having occurred during a brief recess in the third trial of Abraham Ruef on a charge of bribery, now in its eleventh week. Enormous crowds awaited outside the courtroom, the police having been thrown about the jail where Heney is confined. The citizens league today issued a call for a big mass meeting tonight, and prominent bodies have adopted resolutions of sympathy.

Mr. Heney is now resting easily in the Lane hospital and the physicians say his wound is not fatal. Haas is in the city prison. The assassin is a railroad keeper, who was known to the jury panel in the second trial of Ruef and who, after being temporarily passed by both sides, was exposed in a dramatic manner by Mr. Heney as an ex-convict and discharged from the jury. Haas declared after the shooting that Heney had ruined his life by exposure and that he had determined to kill him for that reason.

Mr. Heney had finished the direct examination at noon of James Gallagher, the prosecution's most important witness in all the bribery graft cases and the confessed "go-between" of Ruef and the former board of supervisors. Henry Arch, chief counsel for Ruef, had subjected Gallagher to a severe cross-examination for two hours in the afternoon when Judge Lawlor declared a brief recess at 4:05. The jury filed out and Mr. Heney and Arch and Dozier at the request of the judge, went into his chamber to confer with him on some proposed instructions to the jury. At the close of the conference, Arch, Dozier and Judge Lawlor went out of the court room in front of the building which is in Fulton street near Van Ness avenue.

Heney instead of going outside to enjoy a breath of air, stepped for a moment into an ante-room and then came back to his counsel table. While many of the people who had crowded the court room until there was no standing room left, had also gone out on the sidewalk, there was still a large crowd in the room.

NO WARNING OF ACT.

Mr. Heney was leaning over his table conversing in low tones with Mr. McCabe, chief clerk in the district attorney's office. Directly in front of him was James T. Gallagher, the witness. A representative of the Associated Press had just walked to Mr. Heney's table and was standing at his left elbow waiting to speak to him when a small man, neatly attired, approached from behind with quick steps but with deliberation. Suddenly his right hand shot out and before the newspaper man, McCabe or John Foley, Heney's special body guard, sitting about eight feet away, could make a move there was a flash and a loud report rang through the court room.

For a moment everybody seemed stunned. The assassin whose revolver was within a foot and a half of Heney's head when he pulled the trigger, stepped back, his arms by his sides, one hand still clutching the smoking pistol as if he hesitated what to do next. For a second an impressive silence followed the report while the smoke of the shot floated away, then followed a dramatic scene.

Some one shouted "My God, he has shot Heney." A chorus of exclamations escaped the spectators. Half the people evidently fearing further shooting, made a frantic rush for the doors. Before Haas could raise his pistol again John Foley and E. J. Wikichell, two special policemen, threw him to the floor and wrested the weapon from his grasp.

Haas struggled hard but was dragged to the jury box, thrown on his back and held there just as the jurors, attracted by the shot, came bursting through their private entrance.

Mr. Heney as the shot rang out rose out of his chair, put his hands to his head, the blood streaming through his fingers and reddening the table in front of him, leaned over a moment and was about to fall when those near caught him and laid him on the floor. Charles Oliver and John Foley, two special detectives connected with the district attorney's office, holding his head out of the blood which flowed from a hole which appeared to be just below the right temple.

RESIDENT TELEGRAPHS

His Hope For Recovery of Heney, Shot in San Francisco.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—President Roosevelt today telegraphed an expression of horror to Rudolph Spreckles and Mrs. Heney at San Francisco and his earnest hopes for Heney's recovery.
